READING: Literature DIGITAL PASSAGES

Created by Jessica Tobin

Please read!

These digital passages are the same reading passages from my RL3 units. They've just been recreated horizontally and put into Google slides.

These reading passages are meant to be used with Google Slides.

To open each set of reading passages, click on the standard boxes on the following page. These links will open Google Slides presentations that contain between 6-10 digital passages that are specific to each RI standard.

What you need:

- A Google Classroom account

What to do:

- Open document using links on next page.
- Click "make a copy". This will be your master copy. Name it whatever you'd like.
- Make another copy to share with your students. Get the shareable link using the 'Share' button in the top right corner.

Options for sharing:

- Copy the specific slide you need and share it with your students.
- Share the entire presentation for them to fill out by a certain date or for use when they are reading independently.
- Create a graphic organizer folder for your students to access whichever ones they want/need.

4. What is your point of view about flea markets?
5. Are your points of view the same or different? Explain.

King Hampton

630L

The Smith family was headed to the flea market on Saturday to stock up on some things they needed for the house. Kate's mom loved going to the flea market to look for what she called "someone else's treasure". Kate didn't love going to the flea market, but there was one highlight of the flea market. That was King Hampton.

King Hampton was a dog that was always at the flea market. He was one of the vendor's, or seller's, dogs and was always walking up and down the aisles of the busy market. As soon as Kate and her family arrived, Kate was immediately scanning the area looking for King Hampton. Usually, when Kate found him, he would be doing some sort of tricks so that he could get a treat from another shopper.

Kate and King Hampton had a special bond. She didn't know if it was because she was always there on the weekends, or if King Hampton just loved her. All that she knew is that she loved visiting with him and giving him new treats. Kate knew she would never find any personal treasures at the flea market like her mom did, but she definitely had a dog friend!
